

Who Is God? Teaching Kids About God In 5 Fun & Meaningful Ways

Description

Who is God? That is a key question to teach kids. Teaching Kids about God is one of the most precious and important responsibilities for Christian parents. It helps lay the foundation for their faith and provides them with a sense of purpose, love, and understanding of the Bible. But where do you begin? Explaining who God is to kids can feel like a grand task, especially when their curious minds ask questions like, â??What does God look like?â?• or â??Where does God live?â?•

In this blog post we will guide you through explaining who God is in a way that kids can understand. We will offer practical tips and give recommendations to make this journey both fun and meaningful. For great bible based resources check here.

Who Is God? A Kid-Friendly Explanation

1. Who is God? God Is Our Creator
   Start by teaching children that God made everything. Show kids the beauty of the world around them. Take them on a nature walk and highlight trees, flowers, animals, the sun, and even their own bodies and tell them that God made everything they see. Genesis 1:1 is a great verse to introduce: â??In the beginning, God created the heaven and the earth.â?• You can also tell the story of the creation of the world and this will help kids understand that God made everything.
2. Who is God? God Is Love
   Help kids understand that Godâ??s love is not dependent on whether they are good or bad. Explain that God will love them no matter what and always wants whatâ??s best for them. 1 John 4:8 says:
   â??God is love.â?• You can use examples from their daily lives, for example you could explain that you love them a lot and that Godâ??s love is even greater than your love.
3. Who is God? God Is Everywhere
   Teach kids that God is always with them, no matter where they go. You can also tell them that the great big word that is used for this is to say that God is omnipresent. The concept that God is always with them can provide comfort and assurance, especially during moments when they feel scared or alone. Psalm 139:7-10 illustrates this very well.
4. Who is God? God Is All-Powerful
   The great big word that is used to say that can can do anything is omnipotent. Share stories from the Bible that show Godâ??s power, such as parting the Red Sea (Exodus 14:21-22) or Jesus calming the storm (Mark 4:39). God uses His power to care for and help His children.
5. Who is God? God Wants to Know Us Personally
   Teach kids that God isnâ??t far away. He wants a personal relationship with them and the way we have this relationship with God is through bible study and prayer which is a way to talk to God, just like they would a friend or parent. You can start teaching children to pray by using the Our father prayer.

Tips for Teaching Kids About Who Is God

1. Keep It Simple

Use simple language and stories they can understand well. For instance, compare Godâ??s care for them to a shepherd caring for sheep (Psalm 23).

2. Be Consistent

Teaching about God isnâ??t a one-time conversation. Instead have discussions about God in everyday life for example during meals, bedtime, or while driving.

3. Use Visual Aids

Visual aids like picture books, videos, or crafts can help children understand better who is God.

4. Read the Bible Together

Choose a kid-friendly version of the Bible, such as The Beginnerâ??s Bible or The Jesus Storybook Bible, to introduce Bible stories in a way thatâ??s engaging and age-appropriate. If you are not familiar with these Bibles you can watch this video which shows you these Bibles.

5. Model Faith

Children learn a lot by watching their parents. Let them see you pray, read the Bible, and talk about God.

Fun Ways to Teach Kids About Who Is God

1. Storytime with Bible Stories

Reading Bible stories together is a fantastic way to teach children about Godâ??s character. Books like â??God Gave Us Youâ?• by Lisa Tawn Bergren can help them grasp concepts like Godâ??s love.

2. Interactive Devotionals

Interactive devotionals designed for kids, like â??Indescribable: 100 Devotions for Kids About God and Scienceâ?• by Louie Giglio, combine faith and science to explain Godâ??s role as Creator in a fun way.

3. Play-Based Learning

Use toys or games to illustrate lessons about God. For instance, a Noahâ??s Ark playset can help teach the story of Noah.

4. Christian Songs for Kids

Music can be a powerful teaching tool. Songs like â??Jesus Loves Meâ?• or â??Heâ??s Got the Whole World in His Handsâ?• make learning about God fun and memorable while telling stories about God or about Godâ??s characteristics such as his power

5. Crafts and Activities

Craft activities like creating â??Godâ??s Creationâ?• collages or making prayer jars allow kids to engage with faith concepts hands-on. These are great ways to help kids learn about who God is.

Helping Kids Understand Who Is God

Parents can take advantage of everyday moments to teach their children about God:

- At Mealtimes: Thank God for the food and talk about how God provides for us daily.
- Before Bedtime: Pray together and talk about the dayâ??s activities, thank God for blessings and ask for His guidance. You can find prayer examples in our blog post here.
- In Nature: Enjoy Godâ??s creation by exploring parks, gardens, or even your backyard.
- During Challenges: Show how faith in God can provide strength and comfort during difficult times.

FAQs About Teaching Kids Who God Is

1. How Do I Explain the Trinity to Kids?

Use simple examples such as the last name of the family. You may be the Matthew family but their is John Matthew, Diane Matthew and Sam Matthew. The God head is all God like you are all Matthewâ??s but each with distinct qualities and functions.

2. What If My Child Asks Tough Questions About God?

Answer honestly and age-appropriately. If you donâ??t know the answer, admit it and research the question together by reading the Bible or asking a pastor.

3. How Can I Keep Their Interest?

Use interactive tools like Bible apps, songs, and activities to keep learning engaging and age-appropriate.

Why It Matters to Teach Kids About God

Teaching kids about God isnâ??t just about passing on knowledge but itâ??s about giving them a strong foundation for life. When children know who God is, they understand that they are loved, valued, and never alone. It gives them hope, resilience, and a sense of purpose.

By being an example of faith, using creative tools, and making God apart of daily life, parents can nurture a deep and lasting relationship with Him in their childrenâ??s hearts.

Make the journey fun, and remember: You donâ??t have to be perfect.
